

The Standpoint Paper

A document of candid thoughts, inspired by the outbreak of the Covid-19, offering light on human sanity and success, and what should happen between your life and your death.

1. Fear and uncertainty fills the air that people now breathe. Many have realised that it can all come to an end all of a sudden, if not to a standstill of all human activities, as was shown by the lockdown caused by the pandemic of a virus.
2. Many people were on their marks ready to take a sprint in pursuit of their happiness, some were already running chasing goals and ambitions, and others were cobbling their shoes for their race.
3. And then, there was the bang that quaked the grounds that everyone stood on; the Covid-19 virus arrived with hell's power to disrupt society.
4. Covid-19 came as a brutal bully that chased children out of the playgrounds into their homes, locked up, looking out through the window, fearful.
5. What happened to people's goals and ambitions? How will personal fulfillment and success come if you are locked in inside your house?
6. A forced realisation was made to dawn on a lot of people. They reevaluated the crux of their beliefs about life and their sense of security. For some, a new mindset is born; for others, they will know fear for the rest of their lives.

7. Where do you stand now? Your future, your survival, and your happiness will rely so much on your standpoint from now on. You are going to die like everyone else, but first, see that you truly live.

8. To truly live is to consciously lead your life to make it a beautiful story and to prepare for the death of your body, when you will stand before The Door to be drawn into the vortex of transition from Here to There.

9. You are obligated to do only two things while you live here. The first is to govern your life as a responsible human being and blossom like a flower that is well-fed with the nutrients of nature and sunlight. This is self-realisation. It is to unfold, to become, and to have truly lived.

10. The second thing is to prepare for your transition out of here.

11. The first obligation demands more mental work, time, and resources. The second demands nothing exactly; only that the preparation for it is in everything you do in the first.

12. The conscious direction of your life is your first obligation. Too many people have failed in it, though they tried. Many more people are going to fail in it and you do not want to be in the pack. You want to be among those who succeed in the conscious direction of their lives. Your personal growth is measured now from all you have been and will again be measured from what you are becoming.

13. To guide and inspire you to real personal growth, The Elevation Course will be a valuable resource to you. It is a personal development course designed to stir your mental powers in manifesting a good future for yourself and not the fake life that many are proud of living. It is available for free for you to begin the application of its guide. The course has the single objective of guiding you to the life that you want: comfort, career, money, and happiness.

14. Continue on the path of self-development and succeed according to your power. But, never lose mind in the fact that anything can happen anytime to disrupt everything you call normal.

15. Do not go through life as a fool, mindful only of the good that you seek for yourself so much so that you are not aware of the evil currents passing through the world.

16. There is a Demon, more than two thousand years old in the book, seeking to find its fulfillment in the world through the hands of racists with selfish purposes. The Beast famed for signaling the end of civilization as you know it.

17. Whatever happens, we will see.

18. Never be afraid of the terror that is also famed to accompany that demon. But be prepared to give your life to save your life. How bad you want to keep your life will be seen in how bad you fight to keep it.

19. But, if the spirit of death comes to dine with you, it will not be your end. You shall not cease to exist if you cast off your body. The more convinced you are of this, the healthier you are.

20. Whether you know it or not, there is an afterlife. Proofs of it cannot yet be scientifically proven to the satisfaction of all. But it is known that beyond here is There.

21. It is better to believe in the afterlife and prepare for your transition than to not believe and not prepare.

22. If you believe in the afterlife, then of a necessity you would have subscribed to one of the several religious narratives or to a more empowering narrative that holds no punishment for your fault in hell, or a reward for your good conduct in heaven.

23. The better for you if you believe in a narrative of the afterlife that transcends all existing narratives because it is whole, reasonable, honest, and closer to the truth than all the others. And it is this, in summary, that life continues at death and that portals are placed at invisible spots transitioning souls into destinations that are rightly fitted for them to take up new habitation if reincarnating on Earth will not be their next birth.

24. This Earth is a Mansion and there are many Mansions across the Universe. When it is time, you will know. You will live here again or you will leave here to go there to a Mansion, born anew into a different planet.

25. The danger of not accepting that there is an afterlife is that it indirectly acts as the individual's statement of not desiring to see more of life, of not wanting to experience life again whether as a mortal or as Consciousness and of desiring to cease existing.

26. To not be in your present body and remain as Consciousness is to either Live as an immaterial spirit-form or continue mortal life in one of many material human forms available throughout Space.

27. The preparation to see what lies after death involves the thoughts and imagination of what lies after death. The healthier your mind is, free from the virus of poisonous ideas and doctrines, the better you can perceive the reality of the beyond.

28. People fear death because they want to live more even if their existence is a wretched one. People want to live more to enjoy life in whatever measure their enjoyment comes. And if death meets them at their old age, they desire to live on. This is not something people just wake up and long for; it is not a mere desire to desire longer earth life and extended life after earth life. It is what we are. We are hydras. The life of the Hydra is a pointer that we can live long beyond earth, in various planes, through time and space.

29. I cannot tell you exactly where you will go after you die. Maybe I will tell you sometime later. But this I can tell you now. The pathway from here to there is a silent, intractable pathway, filled with light and darkness, and with familiar and unfamiliar colours, shaped with shapes, and there are Eyes all about watching you arrive There from where your fate will be decided.

30. This then should be your mindset. Make your Earthly life the best you can, and prepare to one day make the crossover, to the other side however your departure happen, naturally or tragically.

31. The Covid-19 has but a short life. It will die soon out of the sight of the Sun. Whether they make vaccines or not, the virus will become known only in the books.

32. Carry on your life on the path that makes you happy. Let your happiness consist of your personal growth, your achievements, and the fact that you are a worthy partaker of Life.

33. Do not stand stupidly, distracted, and entertained by clowns while the ground on which you stand is corrupted. If you will not take the business of your life seriously and ready to protect it, you may fall.
